

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

For use as a law enforcement weapon, a saber is provided having an elongated blade and a hilt affixed to one end thereof. The blade has a triangular cross section including a pair of concave sides converging to a sharp common edge. The third side in 5 opposed relation to the sharp edge is convex. The blade is tapered along its length from the hilt end to a point. The handle is oval-shaped, conducive to orientation using the convex side of the blade in a battering mode or the sharp edge in a slashing mode.

10

15

20